

Directions:

A memoir is a first person narrative of a particular point in a person's life.

Think about how you would capture a memoir in only six precise words for the abuser, the target/victim and the bystander of “No One Would Tell” based on the events that occurred.

1. Compose a 6-word memoir, which is as meaningful and accurate as possible for each character: abuser, target and bystander.
2. Share with a peer for feedback, make necessary revisions.
3. Then, get a templates for each. Title it by character heading. Draw a line down the center of the face. On one side, write the memoir. On the other, create a collage or a scene that corresponds to dating violence and the memoir you wrote about.
